

FRIDAY, JULY 11, 1834.

The U. S. Bank.—We believe there are many men, well informed upon other subjects, now actively supporting the U. S. Bank, who, if they could see the real nature of the question at issue, would instantly enlist themselves with redoubled industry in the ranks of its opponents. They have been led to support the Bank, partly by misplaced sympathy, and partly by extraneous and irrelevant causes. It is sufficient that their opinions—if opinions their prejudices may be called—have been hastily formed, without study or investigation—and upon a great question, requiring a good degree of both, and involving not only political principles, but moral rights.

If the present stockholders of the Bank had a just right to demand a recharter of the institution, we would be the last to oppose them. But every unprejudiced reader, who will take up the subject with a view to correct information, must be convinced that the stockholders in question never had this right—and we are sure, that if they did ever possess it, it has been forfeited, time and again, by the conduct of the institution.

The act incorporating the present Bank went into operation in 1816, and expires by its own limitation, on the 3d day of March, 1836. It contains no direct nor indirect promise of a renewal, and holds out no expectations of one. Those persons, therefore, who subscribed for stock under this charter, did so with the implied understanding that it would terminate in 1836; and they can set up no possible claim that the faith of the government was pledged for a continuance of their privileges beyond the provisions of the instrument, under which they claim. If those privileges are so valuable as to be worth the thousands that have been lavished to retain them, the fact offers irresistible evidence why, under a republican government, they should not longer be continued to their present possessors. It is a prominent and proud feature of our government, that it extends its benefits and protection indiscriminately to all who are entitled to enjoy the one, or claim the other—and that neither in letter nor spirit, does it intentionally promote the interest of one portion of the community, at the expense of another.

Judging then, from the opinions which the constant contemplation of such a government would be likely to beget, the present stockholders of the Bank had every reason to suppose, when they accepted this charter, that at its expiration the benefits it conferred, if it should be deemed expedient to renew them, would be bestowed upon other individuals, equally worthy of, and having equally a right to claim, the favors of the government.—Such individuals have already applied for a similar charter, to go into operation at the expiration of the present one; and have offered for it a fair equivalent, in the shape of a bonus to the government of TEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS, for twenty years. The present stockholders claim a renewal of their privilege, to the exclusion of these applicants, without offering an equivalent, and back their claim, with the anomalous argument that they have already enjoyed the privilege for twenty years—the very fact which the spirit of our government would prompt us to cite in favor of finding a new set of men, to be the recipients of its favors.

In maintaining, as we do, that other individuals have a stronger claim to the privileges now conferred upon the U. S. Bank, than its present stockholders, we do not wish to be understood as sanctioning a renewal of those privileges, under any circumstances. We believe, that in whatever hands they may be vested, they are dangerous to the liberties of the country, and utterly subversive of its constitution. We only argued upon the assumed fact that they were to be renewed—a calamity which we pray Heaven to avert. It is a trite saying, of which the fate of all the Republics that have preceded us, should admonish us to be particularly attentive, that "POWER IS ALWAYS STEALING FROM THE MANY TO THE FEW"—and one of the surest preservatives of our government will prove to be a determination on the part of the people at large, to preserve in their own hands, where it rightfully belongs, the full and perfect power of self-government. This can never be done but by the exercise of the greatest caution in creating monied monopolies—which, however honestly they may begin, almost invariably end the corrupt, secret, and insidious foes of every free institution. All experience teaches us that the first, is the fatal step in the path of error—and one monopoly firmly settled and established, thousands will rise up around it, upon the strength of precedent—each one entrenching more and more, silently but surely, upon the liberties of the people, until their fetters are firmly riveted, and they are awakened by the galling of their chains, to the dreadful alternative of revolution or slavery! That feeble, but rancorous band of aristocrats who hover about the Bank, look upon it as their last hope—as the only remaining evidence of their lost power—now about to be sacrificed in atonement to a violated and broken Constitution, which they had hoped a recharter would have enabled them wholly to destroy.

The editor of the Boston Centinel, in alluding to an article which appeared in the Post on Wednesday, relative to the Figure Head, denounces it as unprincipled, and insinuates that we recommend the "application of the torch to our public buildings, our ships and factories!" That there is nothing in our remarks which can justify this inference, the extract made by the Centinel for its text proves, and whether Joseph was too stupid to understand the plain meaning of our language, or too wicked to tell the truth, we are unable to decide—for it is impossible always to determine to what cause his misrepresentations are attributable—mental weakness or political knavery.

The editor of the Union Times may send us his paper and welcome—but we will thank him to shake out the bed bugs before it is folded. We have no affection for the vermin.

Our neighbor Advocate's law argument upon the Figure Head, has captivated us completely—it is perfectly conclusive.

An editor in Danbury, Ct., heads a paragraph with—"A Judgement, and the wrath of the Almighty made powerless by a Lightning Rod."

The Collector of the port of Newport, R. I., C. Ellery, Esq., has resigned that office.

MUNICIPAL COURT.

(Thursday.)

Commonwealth v John Sweeney.—Chas and Lewis West, and a third person, called for beer in the shop of Ellen M'Cauley, in Ann street, which had the reputation of being a resort of ill-fame, for the keeping of which she has since been indicted. Charles West tasted the liquor handed to him for beer, and, disliking it, threw it on to the floor, with the remark that it was poison. He stated it to be "a compound of beer, cider, rum, and laudanum." It is said that this stupefying distillation is usually dealt out, under the name of beer, in brothels, where it speedily steepens the drinker's senses in forgetfulness, and he becomes an insensible and unresisting victim to the harpies who infest such haunts. The remark of West that the liquor was poison, aroused the indignation of the woman who kept the establishment, and she called upon Sweeney to put him out of the house, which he undertook to do by striking him a violent blow over the eye with a stick. A general scuffle ensued, which resulted in Sweeney's being carried to the watch-house, after which Louis West ascertained that his watch was missing. He repaired to the watch-house, where Sweeney was partially searched, without finding the watch upon him, though he was seen to fumble with his hands outside his pantaloons; but as he sat down on the bench, the watch was seen to drop out of the leg of his pantaloons, and he was observed to give it a backward kick under the bench, where it was actually found. The jury returned a verdict of guilty in 10 minutes.

Assaulting a Watchman.—While the first jury were out on the preceding case, Sweeney was again arraigned for an assault on Samuel Bowden, a watchman, with the stick before mentioned, while in the discharge of his duty in arresting him for his assault on Charles West. It was proved that Bowden was summoned to the fringes; that he collared Sweeney, at the same time showing him the badges of his office—his hook and rattle; notwithstanding which Sweeney struck at him three times with the stick, and gave him a severe punch in the breast with the butt end of it. Mr Parker made a few just remarks upon the great importance of sustaining and protecting, by exemplary punishment, the authority of watchmen while in the lawful discharge of their duty, and the case was disposed of in fifteen minutes, the jury returning a verdict of guilty without leaving their seats.

Thomas J. Pelham's case.—J. C. Park, Esq. the Counsel for Pelham, who has been indicted for breaking open Dr. Dyer Divine's trunk, and stealing therefrom $595, in U. S. Bank bills, and notes of hand, &c. made a motion for the reduction of Pelham's bonds; as an inducement for this reduction, it was admitted that the money had been taken from Dr. Divine, and it was agreed that it should be returned to him—the admission and agreement to return the money, (now deposited in a bank, subject to the order of the commonwealth) to be recorded. Judge Thatcher then fixed the bonds at $500, which is supposed to be sufficient to cover all liabilities.

John Connor, indicted for an assault on Constable Ellis, while attempting to quell a riot in Ann Street, on Sunday, June 29, was found guilty by the Jury without leaving their seats.

John Redding, indicted for an assault on William Bemis, who was called upon by the officers, in Ann Street, to assist them in restoring order, was also convicted by the Jury without leaving their seats.

Police Court.—The Court was occupied yesterday afternoon, in the examination of an individual, charged with an assault, with intent to commit a rape, on a little girl, about 11 years of age. The examination was private, and no testimony for the defence was introduced, because, from the positive declarations of the girl, rebutting evidence must have been unavailing in a primary hearing. The defendant sustains an excellent character, while the girl's reputation for veracity is very doubtful. The defendant was ordered to recognise, with sufficient sureties, in the sum of five thousand dollars, with an intimation by the Court, that the question for their redaction would be left open.

Theatrical Chit Chat.—Forrest will shortly close his professional engagements in this country by a farewell benefit at the Bowery—a magnificent Gold Medal will be presented to him before his departure for Europe, and a dinner given, at which it is said, all the Literati will be present.

Mrs. Blake, one of the best stock actresses in America—made her first appearance as "The Queen" in Richard, on Tuesday evening at the Park—Eaton playing for the first time in New York, "Gloster."

The Tremont is closed for the season—Mr and Mrs Barrett are engaged for the ensuing campaign.

The Warren Company, Messrs. Hill & Jones managers, are at Portland, playing to good houses, and winning "golden opinions." Sinclair's last appearance was announced for last evening.

Mrs Austin is reported to be very ill.

Arcful Calamity.—During the thunder storm of yesterday afternoon, the Catholic Church in Charlestown, was struck by lightning, which descended into the school room under the church, and killed three boys, and badly wounded two or three girls. Jackman's hotel on the neck was also badly damaged at the same time, but no lives lost.

There was another row at the Chatham Street Chapel, New York, on Monday evening, between the whites and blacks. It seems the Chapel had, by accident, been rented to both upon the same evening. The blacks got possession first, and an attempt to eject them by force of arms resulted in a general knock-down, which produced the usual number of broken heads and broken benches.

The mate of the sloop Herald, of Providence, has been put under arrest in New York, for violence used in forcing several individuals to leave his vessel, who had insisted upon remaining there in a state of mutiny. The hearing of the case was postponed for a fortnight.

The little Martin who tends the Taunton Wiggery, and has worn himself to a skeleton in chasing alewives up Taunton river, is advised to mind his own business for the future.

An unsuccessful attempt was recently made to rob the Concord (N. H.) Bank.

Honors to Lafayette.—A meeting of the Young Men of Boston has been called for this evening at the Old Common Council Room, for the purpose of taking such measures as may be thought proper to express, in a public manner, the grief and regret of this community at the death of the good and patriotic LAFAYETTE.—It will no doubt be fully attended, and its proceedings characterised by an expression of all that gratitude and respect to which the companion and bosom friend of WASHINGTON is entitled from the American people.—All parties and all sects should join in rendering homage to his memory.

Latest from England.—The British frigate President, from London, 29th May, at Halifax, brings the following:—Mr Stanley, Sir James Graham, the Duke of Richmond, and Lord Goderich, resigned office the 27th May.

The scholars of the female department of the Hancock School will visit Hingham to-morrow in the steamer General Lincoln, to leave Foster's wharf at 9 o'clock, A. M. and return at half past 6 in the evening. Music has been provided for the occasion.

Information Wanted.—Mr Wm Ditson, of Lechmere Point, Cambridge, left home on Monday morning last, and has not since returned. He is small in stature, and had on when he left home, a green frock coat and slate colored pantaloons. Any information concerning him, will be gratefully received by his afflicted family, and may be communicated at the Transcript office.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Mr Editor.—While I fully agree with you in the sentiments advanced in your editorial article of this day's date in relation to the Figure Head placed upon the bows of the Constitution, I must nevertheless disagree with the editor of the Barnstable paper, whose remarks you have copied in another column, in which he condemns the act of putting on the head on account of its being contrary to custom.

The fact is, sir, the U. S. Frigate Potomac, now in the Dry Dock at the Navy Yard, Charlestown, and not a stone's throw from the Constitution, has a head of Captain James Smith, the first settler of Virginia, upon her bows, placed there, it is said, under the direction of the Commissioners of the Navy.

The following extract from the New England Galaxy, of May 24, 1834, which I am satisfied is correct, also furnishes another proof that the Barnstable editor is incorrect in his opinion:—

"But the crying sin, the unprecedented vanity, the great enormity, which is really the cause of the outcry, is that the full length figure on the bows of the Constitution is a likeness of Gen. Jackson. It might have been better perhaps to put the original head, 'Hercules,' with his club, upon the bows of that ship, and thus give the preference to a Heathen God over the President of the United States—but we doubt whether any reasonable man, Tory or Whig, would go to that length. But—the ornamenting of a U. S. ship, with a figure of a President of the U. S. during his administration, is no new thing after all. Is the old frigate John Adams, now razed, as the phrase is, down to a sloop of war, forgotten? She was built during the administration of the elder Adams, called by his name, and ornamented with a figure of him—a figure, which as well as the ship, was well and honestly recognized, and is now to be cut down on the ship, at Norfolk, Virginia. A question, on that account, has never been raised."

If other ornaments than Billet or Fiddle heads, or light busts, are forbidden by the Board of Navy Commissioners, why did one of the present board, when Commandant of a Yard, ornament a sloop of war with a Spread Eagle? Was he unaware of the regulations of the Board, till admitted to it? If appointment to the Board, is necessary to acquire a knowledge of naval rules, it would be well that Midshipmen should commence their novitiate by acting as members of the Board of Navy Commissioners, at the outset of their naval career."

I would ask those who approved of the flagrant insult lately offered to the nation by the mutilation of a public vessel of war in this vicinity, how they would feel should some evil-minded person in Norfolk, Virginia, saw the head of the elder Adams from the bows of the sloop of war bearing his name? It would be a case in point, though I grant it would be rendering evil for evil, which all honest men should condemn.

But one thing more remains to render the names of those good citizens who approve of such felonious crimes, immortal; and that is for them to go to the Navy Yard and hand down the spangled banner of the free, and hoist a five striped rag in its place.

I have heard many around me exult at the perpetration of this insulting crime, but I consider that their exultation will cause them many bitter reflections, when every man of us shall take the law in his right hand, and execute judgment upon his neighbor in the most summary manner.

When laws are void and order ceases,
The strong will tear the weak in pieces.

ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

In commenting upon the decapitation of the Figure Head, the Troy Budget remarks—

"We marvel not at this. The records of the Senate of Massachusetts once bore testimony equally damning against the federal party in that State. It should not surprise any one that a party who denounced the war of 1812, and resolved that it was unbecoming moral and religious people to rejoice over the victories obtained by American valor and American blood, should destroy the effigy of the man who closed that war in a blaze of glory."

The Congressional Orators of the peripatetic school have been holding forth with great applause at the Bank fourth of July celebrations at Philadelphia.—From the grave Webster down to the grinning Crockett, they have all had a chance of letting off the surplus eloquence which they were prevented from delivering by the adjournment of Congress. Colonel Crockett cannot bear the idea of going home without playing off a few more capers; nor can the high tragedy heroes of the Senate send their audiences home satisfied unless the congressional clown follows them with a farce. Crockett—let them say what they will—is the Magnus Apollo of the bank party. He is the only man of them all who can keep his audience awake; when he is in want of a sentiment, he cuts a caper, when he has nothing to say, he can at least grin, and he has an unblushing impudence which absolutely looks down all opposition.—N. Y. Times.

The argumentum ad hominem, or a new way to stop inquiry.—Abraham Centis, a butcher, lodged a complaint at the Police against Mr Farren, stage manager at the Bowery theatre, and Anderson, the prompter, for an assault and battery. It appears Mr Centis was in the hotel kept by Mr Jones, next to the theatre, when he heard Mr Farren, whom he did not know, say, "The Yankees are a set of J—d jackasses, and fit to be galled, and as long as he could do it successfully, he would do it;" and Anderson said, "Yes they are, because they aren't descended from Brian Borhoime;" upon which Mr Centis asked Mr Farren why he staid amongst the Yankees and "eat their bread?" Mr F. not feeling disposed to enter into the merits or demerits of the question, thought the best mode of stopping the discussion would be by a blow upon the mouth, which he inflicted, with divers kicks and cuffs, aided by Mr Anderson, who, on this occasion, we did not understand to act as prompter.—N. Y. Star.

Latest from Portugal.—We are indebted to Captain Hebard of the packet ship Hannibal, arrived last night from London, for a Portsmouth paper of 26th May, from which we extract the following important news—

Lisbon, May 20th.—A telegraphic notice was received yesterday from Leira, conveying the important news that Figueiras was taken possession of on the 8th instant, at half past nine in the morning; that Admiral Napier was disembarking, and that the rebel troops were retiring in the direction of Coimbra. The equally interesting information was at the same time received through the same channel, that the rebels had also abandoned Coimbra, and that the Duke of Terceira entered the city, without opposition, about the same hour in the morning of the 8th inst.—N. Y. Times.

A Fortunate Recovery of Lost Property.—A letter directed to "Sands, Hodgson, Turner & Co., Liverpool," covering bills of exchange for $91,264 08, which was to have been transmitted by the packet of the 1st instant, was lost upon the Battery, and fortunately picked up by Mr Charles F. Mather, of Albany, who was on his way to Amboy. Upon his return to the city, Mr M. inserted a note in this paper, which soon led to the restoration of this large amount.—N. Y. Enquirer.

Attempt at Suicide.—Samuel Hardwick, who keeps a Refreshment room in Norfolk Avenue, at the office of the Roxbury Hourly Stages, and who has been occasionally deranged for some weeks past, went into Mr Foster's Provision Store in Broomfield street yesterday forenoon—took up a knife, and after whetting it carefully, suddenly drew it with great force across his throat—intending to destroy himself—making a horrible gash—but he was seized by Mr Foster and some neighbors, before he had completed the deed—and has been subsequently conveyed to the hospital. It is thought he may recover.—Merc. Jour.

Suicide.—We understand that the wife of the Rev. Mr Storrs, of Braintree, committed suicide this morning by hanging. No particular cause is assigned for the act—but it is supposed that she was laboring under derangement at the time.—Ibid.

A similar attempt was made with a razor, or the afternoon of the fourth inst., by a German, (name unknown,) who was residing at the South End. He was taken to the House of Industry, and will, we learn, probably recover.—Trans.

Casualty.—A lad named Wm. Mizner, aged 11 years, son of Mr Gilbert Mizner, was found dead early this morning in the back bay, near the termination of the Worcester Rail Road. He went into the water for the purpose of bathing, and unintentionally walking into deep water, and not being a swimmer was drowned.—Mercantile.

Accident.—Yesterday forenoon at Central wharf, while discharging the ship Tarquin, an Irish laborer had his skull fractured and his leg broken, by the fall of a piece of rail road iron. He was conveyed to his house in Broad street.—Ibid.

Vessel Sold.—Brig Adelaide, 178 tons burthen, two years old, built of good materials—copper fastened and coppered to the bends, well found in sails and rigging, cables and anchors—was sold this day by John Tyler, at auction, for 4,200 dollars—terms four months, or three per cent. off for cash.—Ibid.

Burden's Boat.—The Sea Serpent steamboat, Helen, started for Albany at 13 minutes past 7 yesterday morning; the Erie having left at 7. A gentleman who came down the river yesterday, informs us, that he met the Erie between Hudson and Catskill, and the Helen this side of Catskill; the Erie being several miles ahead. The Erie is a powerful boat; and the fact that the Helen, on her first trip, is nearly able to keep up with her, renders it not improbable that Mr. Burden's anticipations may eventually be realized.

P. S. We have since learned that the Erie arrived at Albany full an hour before the Helen. The former stopped 14 times on the passage, to land or take in passengers; the latter did not stop at all.—Jour. of Com.

The Hon. Mr Mondelet, one of the commissioners appointed by the British government to take information on the penitentiaries in the United States, arrived at Quebec on the 22d, and the next day proceeded in company with Mr Neilson, to Thomastown, in Maine, where is situated the most eastern state prison, and will thence proceed south and west and visit all the others in the U. States.

Two young men were killed by lightning, a few days since, in the neighborhood of Kidderminster, (Mass.) They had been out shooting, and being overtaken by the shower, sought shelter under a tree, which being struck, caused the accident. Their names were James Lamb, of Waresley, and Joseph Morgan, son of the Rev Thomas Morgan, of Stone.

During the funeral of Lafayette, about 100 young men bearing a stand of colours, attempted to interrupt (says the ministerial paper) the procession, but their flag was taken from them. Aperson also on the Boulevard St. Martin, fell from a tree, which produced some sensation among the crowd.

Two men, by the names of Austin and Steel, were drowned at Troy, New York, on Sunday last. Mr Austin was thrown from a horse, which he had rode, into the stream, and Mr Steele, in attempting his rescue, grappled with the drowning man, and both perished together.

Sickness at Natchez.—A letter dated Natchez, June 7th, received by a citizen of the neighborhood of Harrisburg, says:—"Nine deaths have occurred at this place since Saturday last by cholera, and the yellow fever is raging to a considerable extent."

Mr McLane.—The Delaware Gazette of Friday last, stated that Mr McLane was then in Wilmington, whither he had gone for the purpose of making arrangements for the removal of his family to that city, where they will take up a temporary residence only.

We learn from a private, authentic and intelligent source that the rejection of Mr Stevenson has excited great indignation in Virginia, and was likely to diminish the number of opponents to the administration.—N. Y. Eccl. Post.

Rapid travelling.—A gentleman left Richmond Virginia, at five o'clock on the morning of Friday last, and arrived in this city at four o'clock on Sunday, having been but forty-seven hours on the road.—Ibid.

Apricots.—The Baltimore Patriot tells its readers of a friend that had sent to that journal a basket of ripe apricots, the produce of a garden in that city. A friend indeed.

Rev. Edward B. Hall has been requested by the Council of the City of Providence, to deliver an Eulogy on Lafayette.

The Polish Committee have received by collections in Providence, $143 03.

A writer in the Newport Republican is very much smitten with the Juliet of Miss Charlotte Barnes, who is now playing there. He pronounces her acting faultless!

MARRIED.

In Castle Hill, West Chester, (N. Y.) by the Rev Dr Wainwright, of Boston, Henry Phelps Esq. of New York, to Catherine A. daughter of Martin S. Williams Esq.

In Salem, Christopher Turner, 33, in North Salem, William Lefavour, 36, in Worcester, Charles M. son of Matthew Bird, of Boston, 3 years, in New York, Edward Orlando, son of Phineas Gooden formerly of Boston.

HONOURS TO LA FAYETTE.

At a meeting of the "Polish Standard Committee," held at Concert Hall on Tuesday evening last, it was unanimously Resolved, "That it is expedient for the Young Men of Boston to take measures to testify their esteem for the memory of the late General La Fayette; and the undersigned were appointed a Committee to call a meeting for the especial consideration of the subject."

Agreeably to the foregoing Resolution the Young Men of Boston, one and all, are hereby requested to assemble at the Old Common Council Room, Court Square, this evening, July 11th, at 8 o'clock.

IMPORTANT TO AFFLICTED PERSONS.
The NEW ENGLAND ATHOLICON, or SWAIM'S PANACEA, IMPROVED, is now ready for sale by the Proprietor, at his store, No. 103, corner of Cross and Ann streets and 2d Prince street, at wholesale or retail. Also, more than thirty other articles of his manufacture of Medicines and Nostrums, all of which are celebrated for the complaints for which they were prepared. Please call and examine for yourselves, the various articles and certificates of those who have used them in the city and country. MR. DAM has employed MR. HOVEY, who served his time with Messrs. KIDDER & Co. of Charleston, to take charge of his store, at the corner of Cross and Ann streets, who is ready at all times to attend to physicians' prescriptions replenishing Medicine Chests, at reasonable prices, or any other business in the line of an Apothecary or Druggist. Also, a great variety of Fancy Articles and Perfumery. All these are in want of any of the above articles, find them as cheap as at any other store—as Mr. Dam's determination is to sell very cheap for cash.

All of Mr. Dam's Medicines for sale by HENSHAW & Co. Commercial wharf, and by most of the wholesale dealers and many of the retailers in the city. Jaws2woson—July 8
